

The “Rhetorical Triangle”

This exercise is meant to help you think objectively and consider your intentions about what you want to write about and help guide your choices as you write it. We all make automatic adjustments in the way we present ourselves in conversation when we interact with one another. It’s no different when we put words on the page.

Take a few minutes to answer the questions for each “angle” of the triangle to consider how to adjust our communications appropriately for our readers and our subjects.

